

What makes a wedding reception successful?

This is open to interpretation. For some it's good food while others feel it's all about the dress, and still others feel it takes good music. The fun part is in narrowing the selections and finding the perfect fit for you. This all takes place during the planning of your wedding day. From making sure everyone is where they need to be before you say your vows, to giving hugs when you say goodnight, it is all in the plans.

Getting Started:

Getting help to find the best venue, flowers, food, and entertainment is always recommended. Having a wedding coordinator is the best option to relieving the stress of locating exactly what is best for you. A wedding coordinator specializes in collaborating with you to make the right choices.

Your Preferred DJ commits to helping you execute those selections and to communicate the necessary details to both those you have working working you, and the guests with whom you plan to celebrate.

The Ceremony:

When you choose to have your DJ provide the music for your ceremony, we work with your officiant and your wedding coordinator. The ceremony begins and ends with the music and having the correct timing is essential. We would join you in creating an atmosphere that makes your wedding unique. From the pre-ceremony music to the processional and even helping to ensure that your guests can hear you say, "I Do."

The Reception:

Fact of the matter is that once you arrive at your reception, you should be able to relax! The important part is done and it's time for a celebration! Your Preferred DJ offers more than just "good music." We work with you during the planning stages of your wedding to find out what it is you would like to have happen so you can relax. Before you even walk in the door you should be able to take a deep breathe and embrace the ones you love with a smile then simply enjoy the events that follow. It is our pleasure to highlight you as guest of honor and give you the peace of mind to enjoy your guests without having to worry about your schedule of events.

Communication is Key:

Good preparation takes great communication. Your Preferred DJ will work with you to unfold the plans for your special day. It is our desire to connect with you in order to know what we can do to help you achieve success for your wedding day.

“Good Music”

Good music is a matter of personal preference and varies from person to person. The beautiful thing about weddings is that there is always a variety of tastes and desires that cannot be reproduced. You will never again be able to bring the exact same group of people together in one room therefore the selection of music should be specific to that group. Our definition of a successful wedding reception is when you and your guests choose to stay for the celebration. As your Preferred DJ, we make it a personal goal to help you create an atmosphere that is inviting for your guests. From having young families to elderly guests in attendance, it is important that everyone can feel they are a part of your special day.

As you consider the music you would like to have played, it is important to remember those you plan to share it with. These guests will share in the joy of your union and will play an important role in what is considered “good music.” Playing a variety of music will please those with different music preferences throughout the duration of your event. Our DJ’s carry an extensive music library offering top quality sound with a set up that will compliment any setting.

Our DJ’s

Each DJ has an interactive personality who loves to provide a variety of music for all types of people. It is our specialty to blend requests from your guests with your preselected song list. We make it a priority to work with you and the people you have hired to help create a memorable day. It is essential for you, the bride and groom, to communicate what you imagine for your wedding. Once this has been described, we will do our best to start your event on time, and to keep things moving throughout the evening.
